This book tells about The Creative Peace Achieved by Integritium. The author introduces an entirely different set of terms, ideas and approaches in how to deal with confronted global problems. The essence of our problem is avoiding imperium while maintaining human-centric systemicity. Imperium existed as a part of immature integritium, which is about to ripen to admit diversified cultures and politics. The optimum solution to all problems would be achieving a political economy of global integritium, one that would be generated by the creative peace. The pursuit of this solution should be commenced from the scientific approach toward reviving humanity. In this study we attain a methodology of formulating the science of humanity. Based on the scientific findings, it is generally thought that the initiality of humanity originates from its physicality. Brain science has found profound evidences in support of this proposition. However, natural sciences tend to ignore the phenomenon of the duality of contrary monism, i.e. between physicalism and spiritualism. Physicalism is solely supported by epistemological evidences. On the other hand, spiritualism stands on the foundation of ontological understanding which has yet to be verified by quantified scientific corroboration. In accordance with the science of complexity, anthropomorphosis is defined as the process of human 'transcent' associated with strange attractor. Strange attractor of humanity stems from human physicality that is intercommunicative with the substantial universe. Anthropomorphosis is a process of manifestation of the intrinsic attributes of humanity. Those attributes are the result of the positioning of humanity, which is in between Plexion, the actual infinity of the real universe, and pragma, the growing substantial environment of existential humanity......
